Mobile Security

June 16, 2009: live on your computer

We bring IT security buyers to your desktop.

More and more corporate and government workers are using smaller and smaller devices with loads of applications to access corporate data. Not only are laptops ubiquitous these days, but so too are iPhones, BlackBerries, thumb drives and more.

So how are CxOs going to deal with an already collapsing perimeter that now should mix in centrally managed mobile devices? How can a security pro ensure that these devices, as well as the network they're accessing, remain secure?

The past four eConferences
averaged 600+
registrants
and 300+ live
attendees

SC Magazine presents its first Mobile Security eConference & Expo, June 16, 2009. SC Magazine is the leader in IT security virtual events. Over the past two years, SC eConferences have generated over 600 registrants and 300+ live attendees per event. SC eConferences are the perfect platform for your company to showcase its thought leadership through a speaking session or a booth on the virtual expo floor.
